She grew up in the midwest, and moved every two years because of her fathers love for building new homes. It's no wonder, that she wound up in marketing and sales of new homes before working with her husband, Don Anderson Cosgrove, at their own real estate company in Denver, Co.

All along the way she was fortunate to be able to take art classes in college from, International artist Betty DeMaree, John cerizinski, our own Mary Mathais here on the mountain and many more.

Sally's love of the modern French Masters, especially Monet, and Renoir and their use of pure, lighter colors, can be seen in her work.

In her art work of peaceful, inviting colorful scenes, you can feel a connection to the past. She often applies pure color directly to her paintings letting the eye of the beholder blend them.
